2022 Student Aid At-A-Glance Report to the Board

The Albuquerque Community Foundation awarded from 24 endowment funds in 2022 – assisting student through scholarships or financial aid awards for the 2022-2023 school year. Each program has separate selection criteria and application review procedures. Some awards are one-time awards while some are renewable. Below are brief descriptions of the programs and a list of this year’s volunteers as well as a list of recipients. Awards range from $500-$10,000. All awards are paid annually between July and November.

The Foundation convened 14 individual meetings both in-person and virtually to review applications, ensure applications submitted met program guidelines and criteria, and to make recommendations for award recipients. In some cases, to maximize volunteer time and expertise, some meetings included more than one scholarship program. This year selection committees reviewed a total of 385 applications and of those made 62 awards.

In keeping with IRS regulations, donors and donor representatives do not constitute a majority of any review committee. Renewal awards are reviewed by staff only to ensure compliance with program renewal requirements. All awards are paid directly to institutions and all recipients must be New Mexico residents.
