

Karinna Solares

Born and raised in Albuquerque, New Mexico, and the daughter of immigrants, Karinna built my career around storytelling, community care, and values-driven fundraising. As the Director of Development at Faith Roots Reproductive Action, Karinna leads donor strategy, community partnerships, and major fundraising initiatives aimed at expanding access and strengthening our movements ecosystem. With a passion for reproductive justice and social justice reform, she is committed to building power, resourcing communities, and creating spaces where people can show up as their truest selves.

Outside of work, you can usually find Karinna at the gym, hosting friends and family, or hanging out with her four beloved dogs.
